

In a world where time slips through her hands
She tries to catch the moments, but they always expand
Caught in a web of tasks and endless grind
She wonders if she'll ever find peace of mind

She chats and laughs as time slips away
Forgets the tasks she's meant to slay
Has so much to do, yet can't stay still
Lost in things that don't fulfill

Oh, she misses the time, lets the hours fly
Lost in triviality, till chaos is nigh
Time slips away, she loses her grip
In the maze of small things, she continues to trip

Evening falls, the clock ticks low
The bed calls, but she's not ready to go
Thinks of tomorrow, the day will be tough
Yet she loses herself, can't get enough

Oh, she misses the time, lets the hours fly
Lost in triviality, till chaos is nigh
Time slips away, she loses her grip
In the maze of small things, she continues to trip

In panic then, the night is almost done
Quickly shower, prep food on the run
Tired eyes, the alarm will soon sound
She wonders why she's always in this round

Oh, she misses the time, lets the hours fly
Lost in triviality, till chaos is nigh

Time slips away, she loses her grip
In the maze of small things, she continues to trip

Tired and annoyed, her day begins
But she vows to change and let new habits in
Yet deep inside, she knows it's true
Time will fly again, like a bird in the blue

Tired and annoyed, her day begins
But she vows to change and let new habits in
Yet deep inside, she knows it's true
Time will fly again, like a bird
Bird in the blue